

More Than "Moving Online"

Critical and Creative Teaching in Response to the COVID-19 Crisis

Sunday, March 15, 2020 | 4:00 to 9:00 PM EST

Via Zoom Video Conferencing, 100 Participants at a Time

As K-12 schools, colleges, and universities are closing their campuses and moving, temporarily, to a fully online model of teaching and learning, we know that our colleagues approach this daunting task with varying thoughts, feelings, and teaching strategies.

Faculty, students, and alumni of Central Michigan University's educational technology programs are, in response, offering a series of free online workshops designed to help educators move quickly — yet critically and creatively — into online spaces as the COVID-19 crisis unfolds. Sessions include:

- 4:00 PM EST - Truncating a Syllabus to Accommodate Online Learning
- 5:00 PM EST - To-dos (and a Not To-do) When Teaching Online
- 6:00 PM EST - (re)Designing eLearning for ALL Learners
- 7:00 PM EST - Bringing Group Work Online
- 8:00 PM EST - Engagement for Online Learning

This free event for educators by faculty, students, and alumni affiliated with Central Michigan University's educational technology programs.

For more information about the event, please visit:

blogs.cmich.edu/edtech