

Teach. Learn. Eat!

Join us for collegial conversations about teaching writing.

We welcome colleagues from the mid-Michigan and Bay regions to join us for the renewal of a wonderful series: Dinner and Dialogue. Hosted by Lucia Elden (Mid-Michigan Community College), Troy Hicks (CMU), and Sherrin Frances (SVSU), locations for our events will rotate with each meeting.

Join us on Monday, February 23, 2015 where Marcy Taylor and Elizabeth Brockman share insights from their study of faculty at CMU in their session: "What Do Professors Really Say about College Writing?" We will also discuss potential topics for future Dinner and Dialogue events.

Monday, February 23rd

Pizza served @ 4:30

Session: 5:00 – 6:00

Mid-Michigan Community College's Mount Pleasant Campus @ 2600 S. Summerton Road, Mt. Pleasant 48858
Room 186-187 in the Center for Liberal Arts and Business

The Dinner and Dialogue series unites 6-12th Grade English and Language Arts teachers with colleagues from local community colleges and universities. Partners include the Chippewa River Writing Project at CMU, the First Year Writing Program at SVSU, and Mid-Michigan Community College.

